PROFESSIONAL RESEARCH AND PUBLISHING

The Board of Education encourages its employees to develop professional articles for publication. Whenever an article is intended to present or represent the official position of the Rye Schools, the Board requires that such an article be reviewed and approved by an appropriate administrator or supervisor before it is submitted for publication.

Research writing or publication conducted by professional staff members under the auspices of the school system or as a part of their employment, create an occasional need to copyright a work for the benefit or protection of the individual and the school system. When a work is produced by a staff member through a joint working relationship with some other educational or governmental agency, the copyrighting of such a work shall properly reflect the interest of that agency as well.

This policy does not apply to a work produced outside the authority of the school system.
